[No. 5087.]

For the prevention and cure of ILLIUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS
HAIN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly gratifying to the inventor & feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be advanced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary medicine has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming of circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak in favour of a medicine than of any other.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the reasons for every possible reason that can be given from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prevent an infallible preventive; and further that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.
They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness of the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

of other remedies.

Agricultural.

From the Portland Gazette.

"Let nothing be lost." We ought to be diligent and careful in collecting and preserving all such matters, which, together or separately, may operate as manure, and may increase the products of the fruits of the earth in season. Under our present management of manure, the practice is quite the contrary of what it ought to be—we do not increase and accumulate, but waste and disperse, almost every substance which can be converted into manure and improve the soil. Prudence and economy point out that what is easiest and cheapest to be done, should be first done. Making compost manure ought to be attended to by every farmer. By a little attention and less labor, our barn yard dung might be more than doubled; we might soon find the means, from increased crops, to prosecute more expensive improvements. The following process for making compost has been tested by experience: we recommend it to the consideration of our agricultural readers.

Let a suitable place for the heap be situated in the barn yard, if practicable; otherwise in such a situation as to receive the draining from the barn. Dig a hollow place in the earth, in the form of a wooden tray; cast into it several loads of clay, and spread it over the bottom; beat it until it becomes very hard and smooth over the whole surface, in order that the rich juice of the compost might not be lost by soaking into the ground.

Having made these preparations for a compost heap, calculated, say, for a hundred loads, the following materials and their proportion is preferable: 30 loads of earth, the same quantity of mud from swamps or bogs; the residue to consist of the dung and wash of the hog sty, chips, cobs, leached ashes, dirt about the house upon which urine, wash tubs, &c. have been emptied, cow yard dung, straw, poor hay, &c. one or two loads of green vegetables are to be thrown on the top of the heap to keep it from drying, and promote putrefaction. In collecting the materials for the heap, not more than two or three loads of any one kind should be carted until that is spread over the whole surface, and then as much more of a different kind is to be brought in and spread as before, and in that manner throughout the whole.

The preceding operations are to be performed in May and June; in the month of August let the compost heap be turned up from the bottom, carefully mixed, the several ingredients, and pulverizing the whole as much as can be conveniently done. By this process putrefaction is greatly promoted. There is undoubtedly a great loss to the farmer in making up of winter or coarse manure until it has been put into a situation that may putrefy and thus become a proper manure, or food for vegetables. We might make a considerable quantity of manure yearly, which would be superior in quality to stable dung, by digging a hollow in the hog yard, into which might be thrown green and tender vegetables, and other materials that soon putrefy.

It is generally admitted that there might be great benefits and gains derived from paying a little attention to preserving and increasing manures; but the excuse among farmers is, that they have no time to spare for that business. This, however, is not the real cause why this important branch of farming is so much neglected. Perhaps one of the most powerful reasons which might be assigned arises from the consideration that no immediate profits can be derived from labor and expense thus expended. Hence we see many, who are called farmers, disregard the surest means by which they might become, if not rich, independent and in easy circumstances; namely, the cultivation of the earth and the improvement of their lands, and engage in lumbering, &c. which yield scarcely sufficient to pay the outlay.

RECEPTION OF THE PRESIDENT.

The following is a copy of the Address to the President of the U. States, by His Honor the Mayor, on Saturday last;—to which is subjoined the President's reply.

To the President of the United States:

Sir,
The further prosecution of the important object of your late tour, has brought you to our town. It is with pleasure that the Mayor and Common Council of Alexandria, on behalf of themselves and their fellow-citizens, offer to you their cordial and respectful salutations upon your arrival among us. In you, sir, we behold not only the chief of the nation, but the executive magistrate of this District. Confiding in the purity of your intentions, and believing that the powers vested in you by the constitution, will be used with a due regard to the welfare of the people whose dearest interests are entrusted to your care—we avail ourselves of this occasion to express our sincere hope, that the auspicious circumstances which attend the commencement of your administration, may, with the blessing of our Heavenly Father, under your direction, unite to promote the solid and permanent good of our beloved country. We feel every assurance, that the peculiar interest and welfare of the District of Columbia, will receive your attentive consideration, and that such measures will be recommended by you to Congress, as are in your opinion best calculated to promote the prosperity of the District. With these sentiments we unite in our ardent wishes for your present and future prosperity, and that it may please the Supreme Governor of the world so to guide you, that the course of your administration may entitle you to the gratitude and affection of your fellow-citizens and the respect of future generations.

To which the President was pleased to make the following verbal reply:

That he received with pleasure the kind attention of the town of Alexandria; that from the circumstance of having known the town from his early youth, and entertaining a friendship for many of its inhabitants, the marks of kindness he now received, could not fail to be agreeable to him: that the general interest and defense of the nation, had been the object of his late tour, and in the further prosecution of that object, his present visit was here, and to the neighboring fort, on which the safety of the town seemed materially to depend: that he considered the prosperity of the District, from having been made the seat of the general government, as becoming a subject of national concern, and that he felt every disposition to promote its interests as far as he was enabled by the important situation to which his country had done him the honor to call him.

From the Baltimore Patriot, Nov. 29.

On Monday next the national legislature will convene at Washington. Notwithstanding the present is a period of profound peace in Europe, and the clamor of war is not heard, save in the southern provinces of our own continent, yet there can be no doubt that subjects of much importance will occupy the deliberations of congress. We hope to see a liberal, enlarged, and really national policy adopted with regard to our domestic manufactures, and that our internal relations generally, as far as is expedient, will receive the salutary influence of legislative interference.

It is an opinion, which has met with general credence, that the cause and situation of the patriotic governments of South America will be examined, and the propriety of acknowledging the independence of one or more of them attentively considered. The official communications of the delegation appointed to inquire into the expediency of the latter act, no doubt, will be productive of very important and, perhaps, conclusive weight in the determination of the question.

It has been promulgated, with an appearance of authenticity, that Don Onis, the Spanish minister, has in his possession sealed despatches from his government, which are to be presented to congress at the succeeding session. These are said to be an offer, on the part of Ferdinand, to cede the Floridas to the United States for a stipulated consideration. Should this prove to be the fact, it is sincerely hoped that the attention of our legislature will be called on the subject at an early day in the session.

The present state of affairs at Amelia earnestly requires the interference of some power capable of establishing order and government, and affording it protection from the band of pirates and freebooters by which it is now infested.

When that island fell into the power of the besiegers under McGregor, we rejoiced at the event, because we regarded it as the first movement towards the emancipation of the Floridas, and were impressed with the belief that the possession of that island would operate greatly to promote the common cause of South American freedom, by the facilities which it would afford the Patriots as a place of rendezvous and equipment.

We do not censure the original intention of McGregor—the course of conduct which he pursued, and the measures adopted by him at the onset, furnish at least presumptive evidence that his views were honorable, and that his object was to have taken possession of St. Augustine. He was, no doubt, deceived in his expectations of aid; and we now see that the consequence has been, the conversion of his conquest into a common receptacle for freebooters of all nations and hues—of which, however, the subtle appears to bear the predominance.

We consider it a duty enjoined on our government, as the head of an independent nation, to arrest and completely put a period to these proceedings. Our own commerce and the commerce of the world demand their interference. Let them, by their determinations on the subject, prove to other nations, that, however greatly they value liberty and the freedom of states, yet it requires something more than the mere name of patriots to ensure their countenance and approbation.

Should negotiations not be entered into with the Spanish government at an early day of the session, we trust and believe that congress will see the absolute necessity of interposing and taking possession of the island of Amelia, with such other parts within the territories of Spain, in the vicinity of the United States, as may be deemed expedient to counteract and prevent depredations upon our commerce, as well as upon the commerce of other nations, from an unauthorized source. We believe we hazard nothing in asserting that the time is near at hand when both Amelia and Galvestown will be taken possession of by our government, and held for future disposal.

Cobbett begins to talk of going home. His present opinion is that he shall go in about a year; but if a general election should take place he may go sooner; and if the electors of any city or town would make him the offer of a seat in parliament he would go immediately. He says "I shall in a short time offer myself in distinct terms to the people of a city in the middle of England, to whom I am in some degree pledged." "Conscious as I feel of my power to serve my country in the capacity of member of parliament, it is my duty to offer myself, and to state specifically what I will do if placed in that capacity."

ZERAH COLBURN.
The memoirs of Zerah Colburn are now publishing in England, and subscriptions are about to be circulated for the work in this country. It is the work of J. B. Moore, Esq. "The work will contain a minute detail of the child from his birth; the first discovery of his amazing powers; with some of his most intricate questions; a table of his method of extracting the square and cube roots, and determining the difference of those roots; likewise a full explanation of his method of ascertaining prime numbers, &c. if not a prime number, of obtaining all the factors of which that number is composed, a method (his own invention) which he explained on the night of the 13th December, 1815."

He is now at Westminster school, under the patronage of the Earl of Bristol, where he makes wonderful progress in languages and the mathematics. [Colum.

CAPTAIN PARTRIDGE.

The trial of Captain Partridge, of the Military Academy, at West Point, terminated on the 11th instant. The court sentenced him to be cashiered; but in consideration of former services, recommended him to the President of the United States, for a remission of the punishment, which he has been pleased to grant, and has directed his release from arrest; and that he report for duty to the senior officer of engineers."

SALE OF THE FLORIDAS.

FROM GIBRALTAR.

Capt. Marckley, of the brig Cumberland, of Alexandria, arrived in Hampton Roads on Tuesday last, in 40 days from Gibraltar, informs, that he left at that place, on the 16th October, the American squadron, consisting of the following vessels:—Washington 74, Com. Chauncey; the frigates Constitution and United States; the Peacock and Erie sloops of war; and a brig and sloop belonging to the United States navy, names unknown. The officers and crews of the squadron were all in good health, & were to come out of quarantine in two or three days, when Captain M. understood the frigate Constitution would sail for the United States. On Sunday last, at sunset, Cape Henry bearing W. S. W. distant about five leagues, the Cumberland passed the Franklin 74, under topsails, steering about E. wind blowing fresh. [Patriot.

New-York, Nov. 27.

Extract of a letter dated Liverpool, October 11, 1817.

Cottons have lately been rather dull, but are now reviving, as the stock with which the dealers had an ample provided themselves, is now fast diminishing, and the efforts they are strongly making to purchase a little below our currency, are evidently ineffectual. The new crop will arrive to very bare markets.

Wheat and flour have materially advanced, without any apparent cause, except the fact of the crops having entirely failed in Portugal, which has created an export demand for that quarter. Our own harvest is now completely housed in excellent order. Every exertion will be made to keep the ports open, and the result is at present doubtful. However, the last average, which was the first of the six weeks preceding the quarter day, was only 73s 4d per quarter. Rice remains steady. The crop of Flaxseed has failed in this country and in Ireland; the quantity saved is trifling, and the stock on hand from last season is small; therefore, from present appearances, it is probable that high prices will be realized for the early imports. Prime Turpentine being very scarce, has advanced. Ashes steady. In other articles, no change.—Copper, lead and Iron are daily improving in value.

The average of wheat for the preceding week, is 74s 9d.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE.

Many important subjects are now before the legislature of this state. The bill to prevent the circulation of unchartered notes, passed the senate on the 13th inst. after a very animated discussion. It was before the house of representatives on Wednesday last, and will no doubt receive the concurrence of that body. A bill to tax the Branch Banks of the United States in this state has been reported in the lower house, but will meet with violent opposition.

RESOURCES OF GEORGIA.

By the Treasurer's abstract, submitted to the legislature of Georgia, the receipts of last year, (including $538,970 from the United States, and the former balance in the Treasury) amount to $764,130.

And that the disbursements, (including $29,060 for the Penitentiary, $10,000 loaned the University, $8,000 for internal improvement, and $360,000 paid for bank stock) were 465,275.

Leaving in the Treasury on the 31st of October $298,154.

Due from the general government, and subject to the order of the state 377,042.

The whole making an unappropriated Fund of $665,897.

This sum, (says the Georgia Journal) judiciously applied, would go very far towards opening our navigable rivers, improving public roads, and establishing Free Schools throughout the state.

IMPORTANT!
The Executive of Georgia received on Saturday last, the following important information from Major General Gaines:

Extract of a letter from Gen. Gaines, dated H. Q. Fort Gaines, Nov. 9:

Sir—I had the honor to receive at Fort Montgomery, on the eve of my movement hither, your excellency's communication of the 17th September. My disposable force, consisting of the 4th and 7th Infantry, marched on the 20th ultimo, by the Coneka, on our new route, and arrived at this place last night.

I had entertained a hope that the Seminole Indians, apprized of this movement, would yield to my demand, and thereby obviate the necessity of marching to the frontier the auxiliary force which you were pleased to put in readiness for the purpose. This hope has not been realized. On the contrary, it appears from the best information I can obtain, that the Seminoles have made arrangements to collect their force, amounting to upwards of 2000 warriors, and attack us as soon as we cross Flint river. Although I put little faith in their threats, and believe their numbers to be over-rated—yet, under all the circumstances of the case, I feel it to be my duty to request of your excellency the regiment of infantry and squadron of cavalry designated for this service; and that they may be ordered to assemble at Fort Hawkins on the 25th inst. or as soon after that day as may be practicable—where the infantry will be armed and equipped, and the whole mustered and inspected by Major Nix, of the army of the United States. I apprehend it will not be practicable to arm the cavalry, but in part: It is therefore very desirable that this part of the force should bring with them their own arms and equipments—otherwise I shall be under the necessity of putting muskets into the hands of such as I may be unable otherwise to arm.

Copy of a letter from Major Tieggs to Gen. Gaines, dated Fort Scott, November 1.

Sir—Since my last communication, nothing of any importance has occurred in this quarter. I have a character in confinement, who was present at the meeting of the Mikasuk town the last of September. The determination of the Indians to give up no murderers or others to the whites, and as soon as we cross Flint river, to attack us. The chiefs counted the number present at the meeting—there were 2700 warriors.

[In compliance with the above requisition, orders have been issued by the Governor for the drafted militia to rendezvous at the place appointed, by the first of next month.]

THE BRIEF REMARKER.

"We leave our native lands, these fields so sweet,
Our country leave."

The charming language above, is the translation of a sentence in one of the Eclogues of Virgil, and is from the pen of the great earl of Chatham, in a letter to his young nephew, at the university of Cambridge.

Those so mournfully spoken of here by the shepherd in Virgil, were whole districts of industrious farmers in the vicinity of ancient Rome, whose lands were confiscated, and who, along with their families, were exiled to remote regions, in consequence of their belonging to the defeated parties in the civil wars.

Hapless men! So deep was their affliction, it has been sung in never dying strains.

And who that hath any heart in his bosom, can read without commiseration the Eclogue that describes it?

In all former ages, Exile has been regarded as one of the greatest calamities. The abandonment of native home, and breaking up the numerous and nameless associations it had given birth to; the severance of old friendships and of the endearing ties of blood; the sequestration from acquaintance, from customs, from conditions, by habit made familiar and most natural; and to "become as new into the world, strange and unacquainted"—all this has been reckoned, in times past, as next to death. But the "times are changed, and we are changed with them."

In our country here, thousands of late have gone into exile, and other thousands are going, not by compulsion, but of their own accord. I venture to call it exile, because it sunders them from inestimable privileges and enjoyments; which it were impossible to supply or countervail. "They leave their native land, their fields so sweet;" and infinitely more than that, those venerable institutions, the pride and glory of their native land, they leave: institutions literary, moral, and religious, of far greater price than mines of gold and silver, they voluntarily leave.

Nor cast one longing, lingering, look behind?

Here let me not be misunderstood: it is not emigration that is here reproached, but its wildness of excess. No inconsiderable blessing is it, that we are exempt from the frightful dangers and horrible fears of an overgrown population—that the exuberance of people, wheresoever it happens in particular places, can be drained off so easily, and with benefit to the great whole: and that the domains of our common country are of such wide extent, as to furnish ample room for many generations to come. Moreover, praise is not to be withheld from the astonishing industry, hardness, and enterprise, which already have made so much of the wilderness "to blossom as the rose."

Nor are migrations from the older to the newer parts of this vast commonwealth, at all to be censured, but rather commended, when moderate as to numbers, and conducted with provident care. But excess turneth that to evil, which is good in itself; and scarce ever was wild excess more manifest than in this particular. It would seem indeed, as if the east were now pouring itself upon the west, with near as much phrenzy of zeal, though of a different sort, as western Europe in a certain period of the dark age, poured forth its devoted population upon western Asia. It is as the frantic fervor of the crusaders, abstracted from all considerations of religion.

The illusions of hope, in the present instance, are truly wonderful. They imagine, or seem to imagine, that in the best regions they are seeking after, the earth yields her increase spontaneously as well as abundantly, so as to preclude almost all necessity for hard labor. But, there, as well as here, it will be found, that man must eat bread in the sweat of his face. Suppose, however, that their extravagant expectations were realized; would this circumstance contribute to their welfare? No verily, instead of a blessing it would be a curse to them; or if not to themselves, yet inevitably to their posterity.

It is very often found that the moral of places are in the inverse proportion to their natural advantages: those to which providence hath been most bountiful of its gifts, being most corrupted, whilst other places, of a dreary aspect are distinguished for their pure morality and blameless manners.

The plain of Jordan, where Solomon stood, "was even as the garden of the Lord." The exuberant fertility of the soil furnished its habitants with a fullness of bread, of very easy attainment; while such was the delicious warmth of the climate, that but very little of raiment was needed. A abundance of idleness followed of course. "The men," "telled not," neither did the women "spin." Now, idleness conjoined with plenty, naturally led to voluptuousness: and from both these combined causes there was produced at length an unexampled measure of human depravity; all which came about according to the fixed course of things.

It were easy to gather from the history of man a large number of like instances; instances of extreme richness of soil and deliciousness of climate, where in process of time, the inhabitants became the most slothful and voluptuous and effeminate, the most depraved, and the most wretched of mortals. And it would be easy to show on the other side, that in regions requiring much labor and toil, there has been found generally speaking, the greatest quantity of whatever adorns and ennobles the human character: the most firmness of body and mind, the most enterprise, the most order, and the most virtue and piety.

The truth of it is, necessity is the mother of industry, and, by consequence, of social and virtuous habits. Wherever there is but little necessity for labor, the people will labour but little. Very shortly will they contract the habits of idleness, and along with idleness they will soon learn to associate the most degrading vices.

We are apt to regard conditions in life as positively good, and as positively bad, merely on account of some particular advantage attending the one, and of some particular disadvantage belonging to the other: whereas if we were to examine them carefully and thoroughly, we should find both to be made up of such a mixture of good and evil, that the preference of sober judgment oftentimes would be given to the condition which appeared the least eligible at the first view.

So it is in respect with the matter here in hand. At the first glance we readily give a decided preference to such tracts of our widely extended country as give promise of the most plentiful living with the least alloy of hard labour. But after a few more generations shall have rolled away, where, in the greatest measure, will be found inaction, sloth, the nerveless arm, the peltroon heart, along with all the degrading vices that so naturally breed in the element of habitual idleness and voluptuousness? And again, on the contrary, where will most be found sobriety, good order, fortitude, enterprise, a manly spirit? Where will be found the "bone and the muscle" of the nation—a hardy and virtuous yeomanry? It needs no prophetic gifts to tell.

JOHN A. WASHINGTON.

Sully for Sale.

THIS estate, situated in the county of Fairfax, twenty two miles from Alexandria, and the same distance from Georgetown, contains about seven hundred and fifty acres. Little River Turnpike passes through it half a mile from the dwelling house. The situation is handsome, and remarkably healthy; the water is good and abundant. The soil which was originally excellent, has for some years past had the advantage of improving husbandry, Plaster of Paris acting with powerful and immediate effect on all grasses and grains. The fields present a good surface for cultivation; and those now untitled, are covered with red clover. The orchards are very large and thrifty; the collection of table fruit is choice and various. The mansion is spacious and well constructed; the out-houses are conveniently situated, and the whole have been lately thoroughly repaired and painted. The farm houses, which are all nearly new, are expensive and excellent in their kind.

For a gentleman of leisure this would be a delightful residence; and a profitable estate for an active farmer. The title is indisputable, and perfectly unincumbered.

A number of well taught orderly young men, with good stocks and farming utensils of all kinds, and the crops of the present year, if desired, will be at the command of the purchaser.

Application may be made to the subscriber, living on the premises, next the post-office at Pleasant Valley, in Fairfax.

Thompson, and by him sold to William Galt.—It is supposed she is now lurking about the district of Columbia or its vicinity.—The above reward will be paid for apprehending and securing her so that I get her.

He is about 23 or 24 years of age, 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, and was raised in Manchester. Ned is well made, high forehead and large flat nose: had on when he went away a grey coat and pantaloons, but as he was well provided with clothing of various kinds, it is probable he may have changed his dress. It is believed he went off with his wife, who it appears left Richmond at the same time: she is very black, and, I believe, somewhat pitted with the small pox, talks a great deal, of short stature, and rather thick made. Ned is very artful, and may probably attempt to pass for a free man; he has a down look when spoken to. The above reward will be given if taken out of Richmond & Manchester, and twenty-five dollars if taken in any other place, and all reasonable expenses paid for delivering him to the subscriber.

John Jackson & Co.

James Kennedy & Son,

BOOKSELLERS,

KING-STREET, ALEXANDRIA,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from

Lee's Medicine Store,

No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence;

on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Terebra or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Occurbitina or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tenia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite. Sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fetid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS and MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended.

HAIN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS.

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously promoted as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason to can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness of the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir.

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthma, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.—To persons who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative.

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders Violent cramps in Consumptions the stomach and Loss of appetite Indigestion

Impurity of blood Melancholy

Hysterical affections Gout in the stomach

Inward weaknesses Pains in the limbs and debility Relaxations, etc.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaster.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing their root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetter, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water.

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of nature's weakness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops.

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.
